The Senior Class of 1956
presents

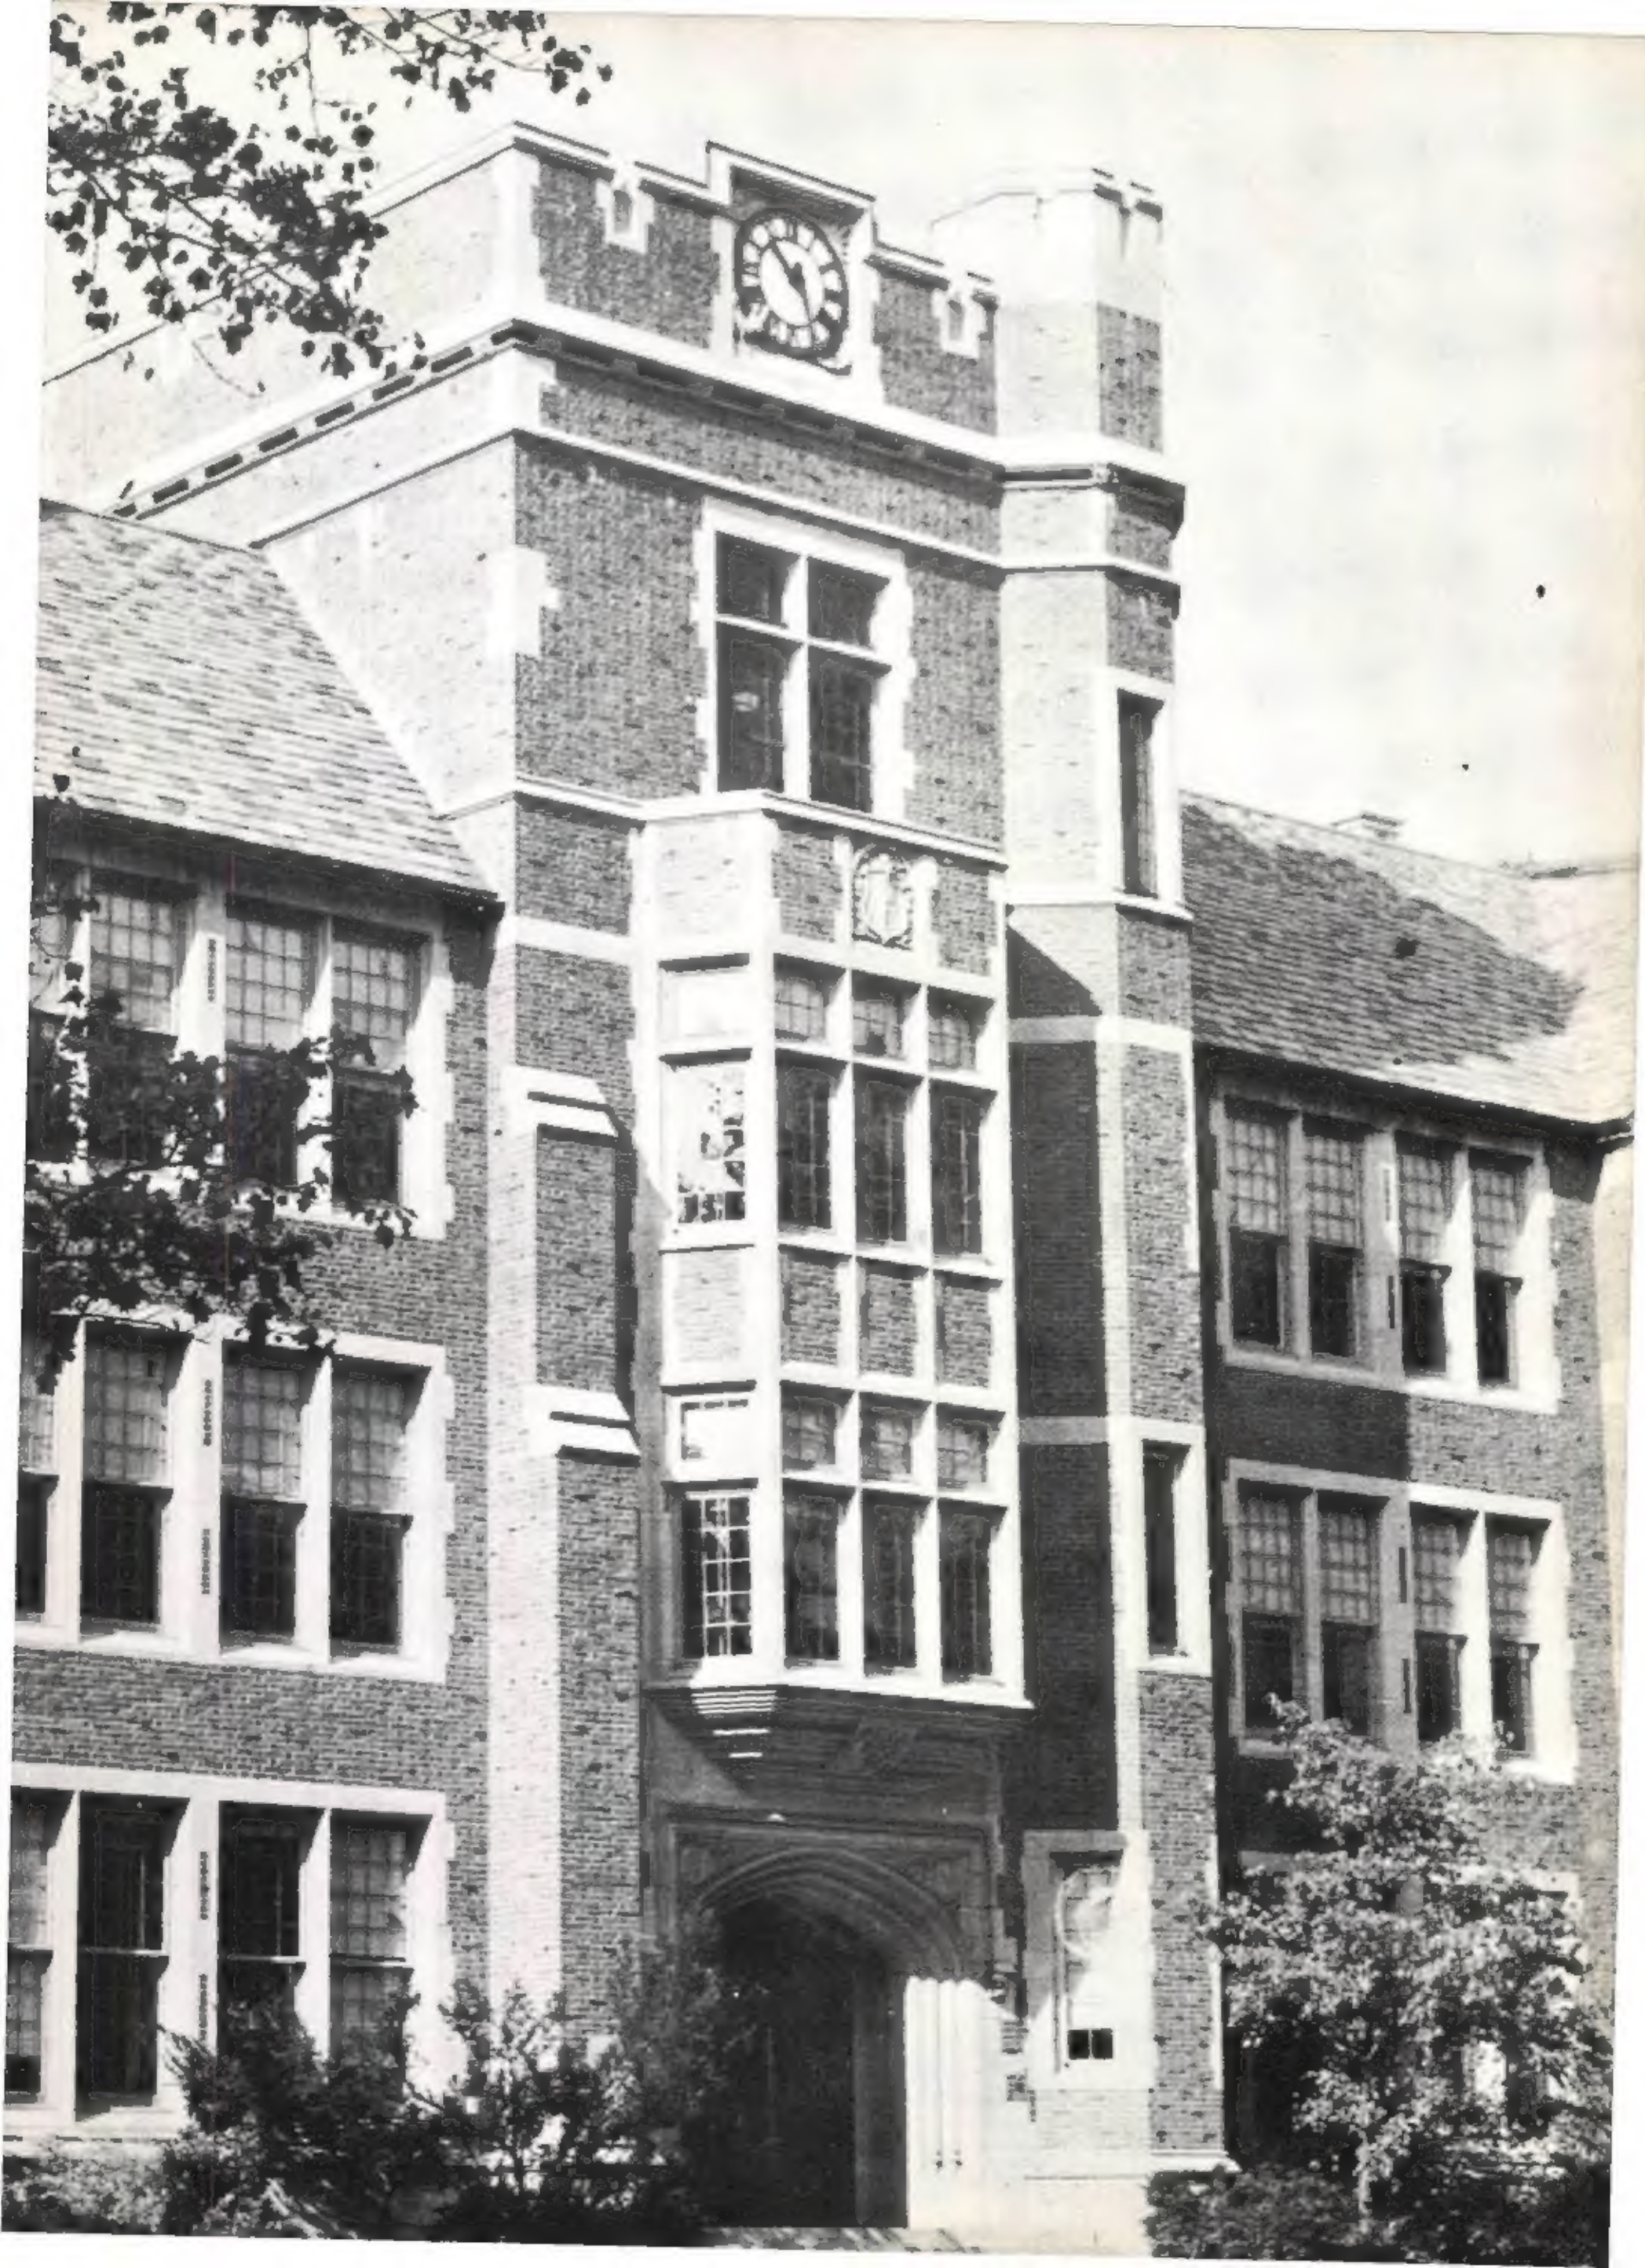

Afoot and Light-Hearted

THE PERI AUGER

Alma Mater

In the midst of nature's garden,
Stands our Alma Mater dear;
Stately edifice of culture
And of learning through the years.
Past us rolls the mighty river
Wooded acres on its shores.
God has formed a perfect background
For the school that we adore.

May the Hudson's sparkling waters
Surging onward to the sea
Symbolize the depth and passion
Of our loyalty to thee.
Rugged crags and towering mountains
In the distance meet the sky;
We will climb with you to guide us,
So, hail, all hail to thee,
Dobbs Ferry High.

Dedication

To Mr. Charles Luce in appreciation for his patient and spirited guidance which led our basketball teams to great victories, we, the Class of 1956, dedicate this yearbook.

“Afoot and Light-hearted”

“Afoot and light-hearted,” that is our youth—a wonderful time in our lives! “Every day is a fresh beginning, every morn is the world made new.” We are filled with imagination and ambition. We root hard for our school teams, dream about 100% on exams and have enough ambition to conquer the world. We have courage to stand up for our ideas and faith in our team’s victory on the gridiron, basketball court and baseball diamond. We are forever striving for our personal goals.

Now we are setting out to face new responsibilities and problems—in college, business or the Armed Forces. The choices we make will be our own; our success will depend upon ourselves. School has given us a varied background with its studies, its activities and its friendships. Through the pages of our yearbook, we will show you our accomplishments, our daily experiences and our adventures, and through its art work, we will reveal some of our daydreams and imagination. We, the Seniors of Dobbs Ferry High School, will always treasure our youth and, as our remembrance of it, we present the “Periauger of 1956.”

The Juniors embarked on a year full of exciting events.

A cake sale started the chain of events and was a bang-up success. These enterprising students also sold Coke at the basketball game and another means of financing their dances.

Then the Juniors came up with the original idea for the Junior dance—"The Cod-Fish Circle." A big advertising campaign was set up and programs to be filled out and kept as souvenirs were circulated. The decorations were unique.

CLASS

Then came the Prom! A big event in any Junior class. The glittering dance floor and romantic music marked it as a big success!

Of course, in between the social whirl the class was struggling through an Intermediate regents, worrying about college or wondering how they were going to pass English III. As June rolled nearer, each one looked forward to becoming a Senior. They have another exciting year ahead of them!

Salute to those pupils who are learning and who are gaining experience to prepare them for the summit of their high school education—their Senior year and graduation.

ACTIVITIES

Activities, a vital part of our high school education, are important in many aspects.

From a student's point of view, entertainment and relaxation are perhaps the main purpose for activities. Through our many clubs, we become acquainted with those who share our same interests and as a result, widen our circle of friends. Working together for a group project such as meeting the deadline for a school publication bring us closer together. Group effort develops a warm spirit of unity. This cooperative spirit, moreover, is required in our activities. For example in chorus or band the student not only develops his own individual abilities but combines his talent with the other members of the organization to present concerts and shows that have entertained us all.

Furthermore, activities encourage a feeling of responsibility among its members. Each club has an obligation to fulfill and every member must participate to reach this goal.

Many of us have found an interest in an avocation as well as a vocation through our activities. A student's capabilities are recognized and encouraged. Those of us who have talent in music, art, writing or political leadership are given the opportunity to develop them.

Each activity broadens our background . . .

"Between the Dark and the Daylight,
When the Night is beginning to Lower,
Comes a pause in the Day's occupations,
That is known as the Children's hour."

—H. Wadsworth Longfellow

SPORTS

The sports program is another vital phase of our high school years. Awards urge the participants to gain mental as well as physical strength. Sports instill in them good sportsmanship, self-discipline, teamwork and the willingness to go forward.

Through active participation in athletics, students learn how to be good losers as well as good winners. They can accept defeat as well as victory. When they lose, they do not give up; they strive even harder to reach victory — and the next time they do win. This self-discipline teaches them to step forward into adult life with the same "will to win."

Teamwork determines the success of any group or team. This requires cooperation from everyone. The members of an athletic team work together to achieve their aim — victory. These young athletes realize the importance of teamwork and cooperation.

Students also obtain enjoyment and pleasure from athletic participation. They enjoy themselves and, at the same time, form many friendships. This warm spirit of teamwork and enthusiasm fosters loyalty to each other and to the school.

"AFOOT AND LIGHT-HEARTED"

"Afoot and light-hearted I take to the open road,
Healthy, free, the world before me,
The long brown path before me leading wherever I choose.
Henceforth I ask not good-fortune, I myself am good-fortune,
Henceforth I whimper no more, postpone no more, need nothing,
Done with indoor complaints, libraries, querulous criticisms,
Strong and content I travel the open road."

—Walt Whitman
